ACTIVE INDUSTRY

SHORTEN THE WAR

"In these days of so much thoughtless discussion of the curtailment of certain industries, it should be remembered that no industry which has become an essential part of the national life can be injured without injury to the organism of which it is a part," comments David Jameson, recently elected president of the American Automobile association, who has had to do with the self-propelled vehicles since their appearance on the scene nearly a score of years ago.

"Curtailed anywhere is forbidden by the laws of self-preservation, except only in so far as the exigencies of the war program require," continues Mr. Jameson, "and that program should distribute its burdens and curtailments in an equitable manner. The nation needs its industries because they contribute to the national wealth. This will be a long war. Industries which can live ought to live. They have rights which yield only to the superior rights of the nation."

"The manufacture of passenger automobiles is one of the nation's great industries. It has suffered natural curtailment because of slackened demand upon the part of an economizing public. That it should suffer still further artificially and arbitrarily has been suggested by two thoughts, both of which are erroneous. (1) The automobile is regarded as a pleasure vehicle; and (2) as a consumer of steel needed elsewhere. The passenger car is no longer primarily a pleasure car. I may venture to say that to 90 per cent of car owners their automobile is a vehicle, not a machine for entertainment. But the entertainment has its utilization side. Human

HARRY J. WHITE IS WITH THE TROOPS IN ENGLAND

James Macbeth has received the following most interesting letter from Harry J. White, formerly of Ogden but now with the expeditionary forces at Seaford Camp, Sussex, England. White was formerly a restaurant man and later with Thomas Foley in this city.

"Liverpool, July 1, 1918. Dear Jim: Our ship has just reached the port above named. I wanted to notify you that I have arrived safely and that I had a most wonderful trip. We haven't landed yet, but intend to do so in the morning. I will write in the morning and let you know where we go from here. I will be busy tomorrow packing up, so tell all the boys I will write them later, as I haven't time now. I am feeling O. K. and having a wonderful time. We were over six weeks on the water.

"It will be fourteen years tomorrow since I left the old country. Just think of landing on the same day.

"Jim, I wrote the above yesterday but didn't have time to mail it. I am now at Seaford camp, where I will be in quarantine for ten days. I am going to have a strenuous time from the looks of things here, but I guess I'll get by alright. I don't know what my new address will be, so use the old one.

"Good luck and love to you all.

"Your old crone,"

"HARRY."

nature must have some surcease from the accumulating war horror or it will break under the strain.

"The output of iron steel in America in 1917 was 42,600,000 tons. That of Great Britain was 10,500,000 tons. That of Germany and Austria-Hungary combined was less than 25,000,000 tons. I leave out of the estimate France and Japan. Surely there will be tonnage of steel enough, more than double that of our enemies. When there is not, and we must talk of curtailment, we should have a correct conception of the importance of the part taken by the passenger car in the transportation problem before we cripple it unduly. There is the matter of repairs to cars in operation. There is the matter of preservation so far as possible of plant or organizations, the building up of which may have been a labor of a lifetime, all related to this great industry. When our cars are needed, the nation can have them. When the factories are needed, they should be in a state of effective availability.

"The motor truck will solve vital transportation problems. It brings with itself the need for more rugged road construction, a greater initial expenditure and positive provision for maintenance. We shall meet the truck's highway requirements, for it will serve our pressing needs. But we shall ask consideration in weight of loads, in the reduced roads progress which we can make with decreased appropriations and bond issues.

"Motorists and motor car builders will yield to no one in their purpose to promote the nation's war work. My counsel to both is to make every possible contribution to that end and so devoutly to be wished for to wit: the end of hostilities and the return of peace, but let us have haste without hysteria. Let us carry our heads high, but keep our feet upon the ground."

from some who resent being held up and the wastefulness of foods:

August 8, 1918

SKAGGS' CASH STORE:

I see where you have stirred up much sentiment regarding the status of certain Ogden alleged inefficient grocers in the wasteful way they handle their goods. Right you are in going after them; and it is making friends for you. Your fearless methods in exposing these fellows demands the support and applause of the buying public. I am one who finally got out of their "Charge and Delivery—and Any Old Price" methods and am getting the benefit of the modern way of cash and independence—and the natural saving.

PLEASE EXPLAIN THIS:

Why did the Grocers' Trust stores hold peaches up to 10c a pound (July 29, to be exact) when a much superior quality could be purchased (the writer purchased a box for 75c) with 1½ miles of the business district? This was less than 4c a pound. But the Grocers' Trust held the price of peaches up to 10c! And the grades offered were far compared with those bought direct at less money. An alleged wholesale concern that buys its groceries where all the rest of the retailers get their supplies—from the local jobbers—uses the wholesale manner when it is in reality nothing but a retail concern. But it often says: "Isn't it strange?" Yes, it is strange the way forms of deceit have been worked upon the public of this city. How long will it last? A full dozen of us north of Twelfth street are with you in your fight. Keep it up.

TWELFTH STREETER.

Nothing Wasted Here

Skaggs' Stores buy only what we know can be sold at a reasonable price. We take no chances on throwing foods away. Our profits would not permit it, even if it was not wrong.

COFFEE TO BE HIGHER

We are advised that coffee has advanced in price on account of increased freight rates and various other reasons. We had thousands of pounds in the bean shipped to us before price changed and we can still furnish our coffees at the old price. Every package or can is guaranteed by the roaster. It must please you or money refunded.

KEEP YOUR PRICES UP.

It is just a year since one of the ringleaders in the old Retail Grocers' Trust was busy telling a traveling representative these exact words verbatim: "It just keeps me busy getting after these fools and make them keep their prices up. Some of them don't know enough to get the price!"

Now what do you think of that? And this same fellow is still in business in Ogden!

THE ONE WHO OVERHEARD IT.

HOME GROWN VEGETABLES

are coming in freely now. Tomatoes, green corn, melons, cantaloupes, green beans and other items. Prices are very reasonable when compared to that of other foods. Use them freely and save other items for winter.

3 pounds tomatoes, 10c; 9 pounds ..... 25c
Green corn, dozen ..... 20c
Melons, home grown and guaranteed, pound ..... 4c
Home grown cantaloupes ..... 7½c and 10c
Green string beans, pound ..... 5c
10 pounds fancy new spuds ..... 25c
100 pounds fancy new spuds ..... $1.90

SOAPS

People are realizing that though our soap prices are more than formerly, they are still very cheap when compared with those charged by other dealers. Don't pay 25c for 3 bars or 30c for 4 bars, buy 10 bars at a time and save.

10 bars P. & G. napha soap ..... 60c
10 bars Lenox soap ..... 59c
10 bars Bob White soap ..... 62c
10 bars Crystal White soap ..... 65c
12 bars Ivory soap ..... 75c
12 bars Jergen's bath tablet soap ..... 85c
12 bars Jergen's peroxide soap ..... 95c
12 bars Jergen's Royal Palm soap ..... 95c

"ONE OF THE HAS BEENS"

"Once a grocer used the slogan: "We have been here for years and have been tried and are known." This is a fine invitation to attract purchasers to a store. In the light of the past in Ogden's Grocer's Trust activity, nothing was imparted in that advertisement but pure affrontery.
